Seayak

For quite some time now, the has been the attraction amongst our fast single kayaks. Hardly any other kayak in the segment is as universally applicable as the SEAYAK. One the one hand the long, slim shape provides high speed, the pronounced knickspant on hull, on the other, offers a comparably high level of agility, so that you can also use the SEAYAK on rivers and lakes in an optimum way.

Skerray

The Skerray Rmx plastic kayak is based on the popular all-round composite Skerray. The fish-form shape provides stable, predictable performance in all sea and wind conditions. It features a retractable skeg. There is no compass recess moulded into the deck. The Silva 85 Compass can be fitted to the front hatch cover or the Silva 70UN compass can be fitted with the bracket on the centre foredeck. Technical specifications: Length 514 cm., Width 58 cm, Weight 26 kg, Cockpit 78 x 46 cm, Total volume 330 l.

Kodiak

The Kodiak has proven itself to be the ultimate Expedition Kayak. Not resting, we have recently updated the Kodiak to make it an even better boat. We have added our functional Deck Box for on water gear access. Its knee area was expanded slightly to accommodate a wider range of paddler frames. Deck Fittings were updated to bring the highest level of function and convenience. These include a new spare paddle hold down, and our combination deck- net paddle float self rescue holder. Its capabilities for expeditions make it practical in nearly all others. It is cavernous in terms of gear storage and ultimate capacity, it is also a fast stable boat both loaded and unloaded. At 17', the Kodiak features a trihedral hull & convex waterlines similar to racing kayaks. Its fish-form puts the wide point at the knees instead of the hips to make the boat controllable and comfortable in following seas. The Kodiak's profile is nearly unaffected in most wind conditions. The slender width in the stern chine ensures superior water release.

Capella

The design might be a classic British sea kayak, but the construction could not be more contemporary. Unlike most kayaks in its class, the Capella RM is manufactured using a Triple Layer Process, affording it superior buoyancy, strength and rigidity compared to single layer polyethylene models. The Capella RM is a superb all-round sea kayak, suitable for everything from relaxed expeditions of larger rivers, lakes and coastal areas, to open crossings and multi day trips in challenging conditions. The combination of performance, durability and versatility has already made the RM the choice of many instructors and centres around the world.
